TRADE MARK

The Peak Tramway. The city of Victoria, Hong Kong, is magnificently situated, the houses rising tier upon tier, from the water's edge to a height of over 500 feet on the face of the Peak. Seen from the water at night, when lights twinkle among the trees and from the houses, the city, spreading along the shore for over four miles, affords a sight not soon forgotten. Since 1888 a cable-tramway gives access to the Peak, which is 1,800 feet above the sea, and rises steeply behind the centre of the city.
